Now Open!

The vision of Endo Cannabis Centers' founders was clear from the beginning: Create a unique, inviting and community-centric marijuana dispensary that makes a difference for the greater Adrian area. And, while navigating a pandemic and supply chain shortages added challenges, obstacles and delays, the end result is very impressive.

Investing in Our Community

Endo is locally owned and operated by lifelong Adrian residents who embrace a community-centric philosophy of giving back and helping others. They explain the Endo Mission as follows: "We think local. We invest local. We hire local. And in the coming months, you'll see us actively sponsoring a series of local community service projects and educational events."

Grower-Direct Premium Products

"What I really want people to know," said Endo Supply Chain Manager Kris Paul, who oversees all product development and acquisition, "is that we grow and produce our own premium line of Endo Prime Cannabis flower, bringing clients a level of quality that can't be found anywhere else. We are very proud to provide this quality and value at grower-direct prices. Of course, we also carry an extensive selection of popular and established brands."
